VANCOUVERCENTER'S PARKVIEW ANNOUNCES "WRITE YOUR BEST OFFER" EVENT

VANCOUVER, Wash. – The hot-selling Vancouvercenter's Parkview Condominiums has announced that it will hold a "Write Your Best Offer" event held next weekend, March 15th and 16th, at the exciting downtown Vancouver development.

Prospective buyers are welcomed to tour the condominiums and then make their best offer to the Parkview sales team. Within 30 minutes, all perspective offers will receive a response.

The 112 unit project features one and two bedroom condominiums on seven floors. Unit prices range from $118,900 to $339,900. Parkview opened in mid-July and the complex already surpassed the 50 percent sold mark.

Purchasers of the condominiums receive property tax abatement on the building until 2013 and an incentive plan, a predetermined amount (according to floor plan) that homebuyers are given at closing, which can then use for such things as: closing costs, option upgrades or to off set home owners association dues.

Parkview is part of the vibrant "Vancouvercenter," an exciting two-square-block development that offers residential units along with Class A office and retail space. The development boasts secure underground parking, on-site fitness facilities, a community room and high-speed internet capabilities. The project is located adjacent to the popular Esther Short Park.

"We are thrilled to offer this event to potential homebuyers," said Nawzad Othman, owner's representative for Parkview. "The project has been selling extremely well, but we thought we would give buyers a chance to write there own offers as we kick-off spring."
